

AGNES SCOTT

REBEKAH HALL

While the first floor functions have varied widely over the years—as a dining hall, chapel, parlors and various other departments—the upper floors have consistently remained student residence rooms. The first floor renovation provided a much needed space for the campus as a new Welcome Center and Admissions Office—serving the public, current and prospective students, and their families. Addressing the upper level student resident rooms included adding air conditioning as well as other improved student amenities. The renovation also provided upgrades to make the building accessible to all users. Sustainability is highly important to Agnes Scott College so we set out, and succeeded, to achieve LEED Platinum Certification—no small feat on any project let alone a 100 year old historic building such as Rebekah Hall.
